Yes, I believe you can get a U.S. ham license. However, I would sure hope you could turn that license back into an equivalent class license when you go back home. I'd be looking into that. If so, then definitely go for it!

Actually, I wasn't aware of this. However, I agree with it. Well, I'm not sure it is prudent for someone to use the autopatch for ordering food, but, oh well.

Just the other day I got myself into a situation where I had to use the ap to call our local transit authority. I was unsure about it but I was overheating and all and if nothing else it is an emergency communication.

Does this new ruling mean it is ok for me to do this?
Btw, I'm a blind person who uses the bus system all the time and had gotten myself into a bind and had to get sked information for the bus. I was unable to locate a telephone. 73 de nu7i
